VICTORIA, THE WOMAN.—When free from the cares of State nothing can be simpler than the daily routine of life Queen Victoria leads at Balmoral Castle. She manages her household on very strict principles, the servants rising according to merit—promotion always being held out. For a stupid act one member of the royal household had to wait ten years for promotion. Her Majesty rises at seven, breakfasts at nine, and then attends to dispatches and private correspondence. Luncheon is at two, after which she takes the air, in her carafter which she takes the air, in her cararter which she takes the air, in her car-riage. During meals a piper plays in front of the window. She dines at half-past eight, in the library, not having used the large dining-hall since the death of her husband. There is no display in the library; the arrangements are of the simplest character. She spends most of her time alone in Prince Albert's room. She comes in quietly to dinner, with her knitting in her hand, and retires early. She is a woman of great method. A rainy day does not keep her in; with a water-proof and an umbrella she defies the elements. It is quite a common thing to see her walking in the grounds under a drizzling rain. She is a hardy woman, having no "fine lady" fancies. She dresses consistently with the climate and with the weather; and afresh, comely, sensible lady she is, in her comfortable, plain jacket and broad-rimmed

A law has just gone into effect in Illinois which authorizes the appointment of guardians for habitual drunkards. A jury decides the question of the unfitness to administer his affairs, a notice being served on the party to the effect that an application has been made to the Court, after the serving of which he is debarred from transferring his property or making any valid contracts.
